eral Description of the Purkeville Hydropathic Institute General Description of the Purkeville Hydropathic Institute.

The main building is three stories high, standing back from the street about one hundred feet, with a semicircular grass plot in front, and contains thirty to forty rooms. The grounds around the house are tastefully laid out with walks and planted with trees, shrubs, &c. On the left of the entrance to these grounds is a cottage containing four rooms, used by male patients as a bathing house, with every convenience for "packing," bathing, &c.; on the right of the entrance, about two hundred feet distant, stands a similar cottage, used by the ladies for similar purposes.

In the rear of the Institute, at the distance of one hundred feet, are three other cottages, some eighty feet apart. One of these is the laundry, with a hydrant at the door; the other two are occupied by the servants.

The hydrant water is introduced into these cottages as well as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground.

Consist of a circular stone building, standing on the brow of a hill, surmounted by a large codar reservoir containing five hundred barrels, brought from a never-fulling spring of pure cold water in the side of the hill, by "a hydraulic ram," a self-acting machine of cast iron, that is kept constantly going, night and day, by the descent of the water from the spring. The surplus water is carried from the reservoir to a fountain in the water-works yard, surrounded by weeping willows. In the first story of the water-works is a circular room, containing the douche bath, which is a stream falling from a beight of about thirty feet, and can be varied in size from half an inch to an inch and a half in diameter. Adjoining the douche room is a dressing room, with marble tables, &c.; the rising douche (for the cure of piles, &c.) is one of the most complete contrivances of the kind, being entirely under the control of the patient using the same.

There are many other appliances, which can be better understood by a personal examination.

To Persons out of Employment. NEW PICTORIAL WORKS,

Just published by R. SEARS, and for sale at No. Nassau street, New York. A MERICAN GIFT BOOKS FOR 1851.—Agents are wanted to circulate the following new and beautiful works, (retail price, $2 50 per vol.) A new and complete with a descriptive account of those countries and their inhabitants, from the earliest period of authentic history to the present time. In which the editor has treated not only of the historical events, but also of the manners, customs, religion, literature, and domestic habits of the people of those immense empires.

The embellishments are about two hundred, and of the first order, silustrating whatever is neculiar to the inhabit.

The embeliaments are about two numeric, and of the first order, illustrating whatever is peculiar to the inhabitants, regarding their dress, domestic occupations, their mode of agriculture, commercial pursuits, arts, &c. They are accurate, and each one has been made expressly for the work.

The volume forms a large octavo, containing between price, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited.

SEARS' PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS

are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many citizens to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the domestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

OUR PLAN.—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, towns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending $25 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale cash prices.

Enterprising and active men of respectability and good address, would do well to engage in the sale of the above volumes; and all postmasters, clergymen, book pedlars, and newspaper agents, are respectfully requested to act as our agents. A handsome remuneration allowed to all who engage in their sale. For particulars address, post paid,

In consequence of the great number of complaints which have for a long time been made by Emigrants, of frauds committed upon them in the sending of money to their friends in Ireland, and to aid and protect the Emigrant, the Irish Emigrant Society established a fund, deposited in the Bank of Ireland, upon which they draw drafts, payable at sight, at any of the branches of the Bank.

Persons residing out of the city, by enclosing in a letter the sum they wish forwarded, with the plainly written direction to whom and where it is to be paid, will have the same remitted.

direction to whom and where it is to be paid, will have the same remitted.

There is a great advantage in purchasing the Society's drafts—that the Bank has a branch in each of the principal towns in Ireland, and thus the losses by discount, and otherwise, are avoided.

The Society keeps an office at No. 22 Spruce street, to which Emigrants can apply to obtain situations for which they are fitted.

Orders from employers in the country, stating the services required, the wages, and the cheapest modes of conveyance, and giving a respectable reference, will meet with prompt attention.

The Society will be thankful for all circumstantial and early information of any fraud, imposition, or outrage committed on Emigrants, and will endeavor speedily to apply a remedy.

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH To the Editors of the American Telegraph.

For the American Telegraph. THE "TURN-UPS" OF LIFE.

We see each day a disposition, on the part of the whole human family, to trust more to their "turn-ups" than to the well-known effect of a given cause. Our first turn-up is at rather an early period of our existence, I must confess, and we live on in the daily expectation of a more satisfactory "turn-up" than our last; and so we go on till our last "turn-up," when death turns down the page of life. The "turn-ups" of this life vary as much as our turnips; the variety is great, and we have many bad to an extremely small number of good. As children, we have many "turn-ups" at the maternal hands; they, for the most part, are very disagreeable: no child ever remembers with gratification such "turn-ups." As boys, "turn-ups" against a wall in imitation of circus actors are the most prominent, a disposition to reverse the order of nature being inherent in the juveniles of the genus homo. Later in life, when we rarely experience personally corporeal "turn-ups," we are not exempt from the possibility of a "turn-up" on a sleety day. Have you never stood at a corner, secure in the firmness of your friend the lamppost, and, holding your sides, enjoyed a good hearty laugh at some of your most worthy and sedate fellow-citizens turning "up" against their inclinations, and "down" against the bricks? Perhaps some dandy, strapped and buckled so tightly he cannot bend his knees, goes flying and sprawling like a spreadeagle in all the impetuous velocity of his most unexpected "turn-up." Or what is worse, perhaps some gentle Miss, whose smile 'you covet, "turns-up," as it were, at a moment's notice, and goes plump kersmack upon the "down"-y pavement. Of course you wish to save her, but your own "turn-ups" rush through your brain like a drove of young pigs into a turnip field, and you relinquish your desire to be gallant to the necessity of the laws of "turn-ups."

Dangerous things are these "turn-ups." 'Many a time and oft" have they destroyed the pleasure of the hour by their untimely occurrence. Much more harm than good they do and it is far better to look to a probable certainty, (which is certainly a very uncertain kind of certainty,) than to trust to a "turn-up."

But, "turn-ups" or turnips-that we may be always satisfied with the quality of our turnups or ips, is the sincere wish

WILKINS MACAWBER.

For the American Telegraph. JOHN C. CALHOUN.

The recent announcement of General Ham ilton of an important opinion of Mr. Calhoun. must be as gratifying to his real friends as it is mortifying to those who profess to be his disci-ples, but who are the real enemies of the country, and the (unintentional it may be) maligners of his memory. General Hamilton, who was the intimate friend of Mr. Calhoun, vouches for its truth, and I doubt not, at the proper time, the evidence will be presented to the country. Mr. Calhoun then was not the advocate of the separate secession of a State from this Union. only to united moral action and peaceful resistance to the unconstitutional and oppressive legislation of the General Government.

This accords with the opinion I have long entertained of that great man. I have ever believed him a true patriot; a man of powerful, but on some subjects unbalanced mind; honest in his opinions, but frequently blinded by his enthusiastic regard for the rights of the South, and his detestation of northern aggression. The present aspect of the agitating ques-tion, which employed the last energies of his life, is certainly more favorable than he anticipated; and I will go further, and say, more so than the violence of certain leading men in the North permitted the most sanguine to expect. A love of the Union with the masses, strong motives of self-interest, and a large amount of real patriotism, have turned aside the danger. The agitating causes, but a short time ago in active existence, gave full warrant for the belief that this Union would be dissevered. Less causes in other countries have ended in blood. The appeals of Rantoul, Horace Mann, Palfrey, and others, to open resistance to law. prove that their intentions were the very essence of treason. On the other hand, the pro-fessed followers of John C. Calhoun are equally culpable. They do not act like men who desir pence; but seem determined not to be satisfied with any thing but the carrying out their violent determinations. They are trading on Mr. Calhoun's capital for bad purposes, and the end of the law having been accomplished, they still insist without necessity upon the penalty. These men, I doubt not, are influenced by the most corrupt and ambitious motives. There is no consistency in their course. They repudiate the opinion they but a short time ago entertained, ontradict themselves, and seem disposed to rush headlong to one end-the sublime end of tearing off South Carolina from the body politic, and of casting her off from the glorious hopes of this blessed Union-

Like a limb from her country cast bleeding and torn." But there are clear indications that the people of South Carolina will not permit this. They will come to the rescue, and the disunionists South, as they have been North, will be left in harmless minorities. I confidently believe that the forthcoming life of John C. Calhoun will rescue his memory from much undeserved obloquy. That he had great faults, none will deny; but these were attended with noble virtues, as a public and private man. The dazzling brilliance of his genius his character than of Catiline, and was as unlike his would-be followers, who profess to shelter ness, and also calling on the governor to conhis mantle, as Hyperion to the Satyr. GENTLEMEN: Your correspondent "Heights," having been detected and exposed in his misstatements, to use the mildest term, comes out in your paper of the 18th with another, which is equally untrue with those I have already pointed out.

"Heights" asks the question, "Is he (Citizen) not one of those very individuals who receive their pay from the Government in gold and silver, and then sell it for corporation or Virginia money?" So far as regards the writer of this selling gold and silver, it is false, in all and every particular.

The public may now be able to judge what confidence is to be placed in the statements of "Heights." His imagination has led him into another misstatement. The story he relates of the wag meeting a man on the canal, at night, without "hat or boots," inquiring about the storm, must have been on "Herring Hill," and not on the canal; and the individual was seen flying before the storm raised by some outraged citizen. Do you take, Mr. Heights?

DRESDEN .- The conferences of the German Princes continue here still without any definite result. Prussia is jealous of the Austrian subremacy in Germany, and will not agree, and Austria cannot come to a definite demand, be-cause she mistrusts the promises of her rival, Prussia. The conferences are carried on by the parties, with the greatest energy, and it seems they will last longer than the Council of Trent. The records of the past say—"If the Council of Trent had not speedily adjourned, the Emperor would have suffered bankruptcy." So we fear with the present conferences. If they be not soon at an end, the people of Germany may unfortunately suffer a similar result. Here the Police have lately suppressed a book entitled the mysteries of the conference.

NAPLES.—The French police, wishing to serve faithfully that of Naples, announced to the latter that G. Mazzini had started for Naples in the garb of a priest. In two days they arrested in Naples about one hundred priests, and they were not released until they could prove that they were not the great agitator Mazzini.

Ischia.-Letters from this island announce the suffering of the learned and eminent ex-Minister Baron Poerio, now a prisoner of state in the castle of that island, where he is greatly suffering with hunger and thirst. He is not permitted to have either bed, linen, water, or any other means to provide for neatness and decency. Hail Columbia, happy land!

THE FLORIDA EVERGLADES. -Governor Brown of Florida has made a very considerable exploration of the everglades, and the opinion he has arrived at and confidently entertains is, that not only is a thorough drainage impracticable, but, if it could be effected, the deposite laid bare would be found to be a purely vegetable decomposition, light enough when dry to be blown away, and quite as combustible as peat. The everglades are interspersed with numerous channels and basins, of a depth below the level of the ocean, with a limestone or sand bottom; and where the absence of all current permits the vegetable deposites to accumulate to a greater or less depth, it is still so loose and unsubstantial that many years' exposure to the action of the sun and atmosphere will be necessary to the sun and atmosphere will be necessary to impart to it the qualities of soil. By deepening the outlets to the sea, the water of the everglades could be materially lowered so as to reclaim land about the margin, and drain the numerous islands interspersed through this numerous islands interspersed through this connected to a perfection Robert Fulton never dreamed of.—Phila. Add to these the indigenous growth of coonti or arrow-root, of which the Indian makes his bread, and the attachment of the savage to such a spot is easily understood. To him it is almost a paradise.

TO DYE HAIR BLACK INSTANTANEOUSLY .- Dissolve about an ounce of the nitrate of silver in a half-pint vial; then, in another vial of the same size, filled with ether, put some phosphorus (about half an ounce.) Apply the nitrate of silver to the whiskers with a sponge, and after it is on about five minutes, apply the phosphoric ether solution in the same way, and the red or light whiskers become black as fast his well-remembered lectures in this city has you can say "Jack Robinson." The hair deepened a single furrow upon his fine face. ould then be washed. It is not safe, however, to tamper with the nitrate of silver. It should never be used to color the head black; far better to have the locks frosted than colored, if health is of any consequence to the individual man. We have had some inquiries about the way to dye the hair black within the past week The above will give them all the information they want. The phosphorus may be dispensed with, but the color will not be formed so fast by the silver alone. The nitrate of silver is the

MR. JERROLD, jr., son of Douglas Jerrold, has Kentucky under the provisions of the new Conwritten a farce called "Cool as a Cucumber."

Poisonous Vessels.-Vessels of copper often give rise to poisoning. Though the metal un-dergoes but little change in a dry atmosphere, it is rusted if moisture be present, and its surface becomes covered with a green substancecarbonate of the protoxide of copper, a poison-ous compound. It has sometimes happened that a mother has, for want of knowledge, poisoned her family. Sour-krout, when permitted to stand some time in a copper vessel, has produced death in a few hours. Cooks sometimes permit pickles to remain in copper vessels, that they may acquire a rich green color, which they do by absorbing poison.

A Convention of Abolitionists is now in session in Cincinnati. It has adopted a resolution declaring the Fugitive Slave Law a flagrant outrage upon the Federal Constitution, and there-fore an act against which the social and politi-cal influences of the people should be arrayed.

FACT IN ORNITHOLOGY.—The quills of the feathers of birds are air-vessels, which can be emptied and filled at pleasure. The gannet or solan goose is a beautiful instance of this wonderful provision; it lives on fish, and passes the greater portion of its time either in the air or on the water; even in the most tempestuous weather it may be seen floating like a cork on the wildest waves. It can even force air between its skin and body to such a degree that it becomes nearly as light as a bladder.

WEALTHY MEN OF NEW ORLEANS.—In the second municipality, New Orleans, there are seventy persons whose aggregate wealth amounts to more than twelve millions of dollars, which is about one-fourth of the whole assessed real and personal property of the municipality. This is certainly an instance uncommon in America of the unequal distribution of wealth. Three persons pay taxes upon $360,000 worth of assessed property, seven on $250,000, six on $200,000, and thirteen on $100,000; fifty perons on various sums over $60,000.

WESTERN VIRGINIA wants and insists upon having a representation provided solely upon the white population. Eastern Virginia insists that blacks, to some extent, shall be counted as well as white. This long controversy before the Convention is likely to be settled, it is said, by adopting the mixed basis for the Senate, and the pure white basis for the House.

The projectors of the tunnel through Hoosac nountain, in Massachusetts, which is to be four miles long, maintain that with the late improvements in cutting rocks, the work can be done for less than two millions of dollars, and in less than two years. It would enable the journey from Boston to Albany to be made in six hours, which now requires eleven.

Land in Massachusetts.—The quantity of land owned by and strictly in the possession of Massachusetts, either in severalty or jointly with Maine, is now about fourteen millions of acres. Besides, she still retains the fee of some townships, upon which the right to cut timber has been sold, either for a time limited or in perpetuum. With the exception of a few town-ships, which lie upon the extreme head-waters of the Kennebec and Penobscot rivers, these lands are located upon the river St. John and
